

Call for Presentations

The Canadian Alliance to End Homelessness is seeking presenters for the 2018 National Conference on Ending Homelessness, to be held in Hamilton, Ontario November 5-7, 2018.

The National Conference on Ending Homelessness is the annual gathering of a growing national movement of individuals, organizations, communities and government, working together to end homelessness in Canada.

We are inviting proposal submissions on:

- Leadership, Planning and Practice
- Youth Homelessness
- Indigenous Homelessness & Reconciliation
- Housing First
- Women's Homelessness
- Research and Policy

Our program is designed to support and accelerate the end of homelessness in Canada by giving community leaders, agencies, front line workers, researchers, and policy makers the inspiration, information, tools, and training they need to end homelessness.

This conference is an opportunity to meet collectively and exchange learning, best practices and strategies from a growing Canadian and international body of knowledge on ending homelessness.

General Presentation Information

The National Conference on Ending Homelessness will include sixty-six 90-minute sessions organized into six streams:

1. Leadership, Planning and Practice
2. Indigenous Homelessness
3. Women's Homelessness
4. Housing First
5. A Way Home - Youth Homelessness
6. Canadian Observatory on Homelessness - Research and Policy

Presenters can register for the conference at a discounted early bird rate of $210 before September 5th, 2018. After September 5th, 2018 the registration rate is $320. Note: the presenter rate is limited to only one presenter per presentation, up to a total of four presenters per session.

What we're looking for

The aim of the conference is to support and accelerate an end to homelessness in Canada. We want to equip conference attendees with information, tools, national connections, and the training they need to end homelessness. This means we will be looking for presentations that:

- are consistent with a focus on ending homelessness and the principles of Housing First;
- are solutions focused (we can talk about problems, barriers and challenges, but bring the ideas and solutions too);
- provide conference participants actionable knowledge;
- are innovative and, not least of all, interesting;
- are high calibre;
- meet the needs of communities, organizations, sector leaders, and front-line workers who are at different stages on the road to ending homelessness; and,
- provide new material/observations/experience to conference attendees

Diversity

When submitting your proposal bear in mind that the conference is dedicated to providing voice to, and speaking to the needs of, a variety of perspectives and experiences. Please ensure your presentation proposals are sensitive to different individualized and intersectional qualities and social circumstances that may affect experiences of homelessness such as: lived experience of homelessness, LGBTQI2S, youth, culture, age, familial status, and gender.

Reconciliation

Following on the Calls to Action of the Truth and Reconciliation Commission, the CAEH wants to begin to fulfil our role in reconciliation with Indigenous peoples by providing a forum with an environment of mutual respect and understanding. We encourage presenters to consider how presentations can relate to any of the recommendations of the Truth and Reconciliation Commission and honour Residential School Survivors and Missing and Murdered Indigenous Women. We will be looking for content focused on Indigenous homelessness for each of our concurrent session streams.

Got a better idea!?

If you have a unique idea, presentation or session concept that does not necessarily fit in the categories outlined above, please consider submission to the program. There's always room for great ideas that move us toward ending homelessness in Canada!

All submissions must contain the following information:

- Presentation title
- The name(s) of the presenters and their affiliation(s) identifying one lead presenter
- Email address/es and contact details and phone?
- A short (300 words max) presentation summary
- Whether you are proposing a presentation or a complete session
- Which stream you are applying to present in

Please note: in order to develop a complete program, and include as much high-quality content as possible, the CAEH will put presentations together into sessions with similar themes. We may ask proponents putting forward complete sessions to make adjustments to accommodate other linked presentations. We reserve the right to edit session and presentation descriptions and limit the number of presenters.

Submitting a proposal

NEW! This year all submissions will be made through our online submission portal at <http://conference.caeh.ca/program/call-for-presentations/>

The submission deadline is May 4, 2018.

Authors will be notified of their acceptance by early June. If you have any questions relating to the call for presentations, please contact tim@caeh.ca

No guarantees!

Given the overwhelming response to our recent calls for presentations, we expect considerable interest in this year's conference. Therefore, we cannot promise all proposals will be accepted. The location and theme of the 2019 conference will be announced on the last day of this year's conference – please reconsider re-submission for 2019!

Leadership, Planning and Practice Call for Presentations

Indigenous Homelessness Call for Presentations

First Nations, Inuit and Métis Peoples are disproportionately represented amongst homeless populations in most communities in Canada and are 10 times more likely to use emergency shelters in Canada than non-Indigenous Peoples. Indigenous Peoples become homeless and experience homelessness differently than non-Indigenous Peoples and are challenged by the impacts of colonialism, the residential school era, and the 60s/70s Scoop in constructing poverty, racism, loss of culture and more.

Following on the report of the Truth and Reconciliation Commission of Canada, the CAEH wants to begin to fulfil our role in reconciliation with Indigenous Peoples by providing a forum with an environment of mutual respect and understanding, where we can work together to understand the root causes that contribute to homelessness for Indigenous Peoples and solutions.

In these concurrent sessions we would like to explore Indigenous culture and history to specifically understand the context from which homelessness for Indigenous Peoples occurs, specifically the role of colonization, and explore how Indigenous Peoples are working on or how they view strategies for ending homelessness.

This year the CAEH is partnering with Laurentian University's Centre for Research in Social Justice and Policy in the development and delivery of our Indigenous Homelessness concurrent sessions. Proposal submissions will be assessed by a panel of experts, the majority of whom will be Indigenous. Preference will be given to proposals that are lead by or include Indigenous speakers and researchers. Sessions format can be adapted to include sharing circles or other culturally appropriate formats.

There will be twelve 90-minute concurrent sessions in this stream. We are inviting submissions on:

- Understanding and Responding to the Impacts of the Residential School Era or the 60s/70s Scoop
- Unique Considerations for Ending Homelessness for First Nations, Inuit, Metis and Non-Status Peoples
- Decolonizing Housing and Homeless Services
- The Role of Child Welfare in Ending Homelessness for Indigenous Peoples
- Understanding the Unique Needs of Indigenous LGBTQ2S Peoples
- The Role of Reconciliation in Ending Homelessness
- Addressing Intergenerational Trauma
- Considerations in Housing First for Indigenous Peoples
- The Intersection Between Homelessness and MMIWG
- Housing and Housing First in the North
- The Role of Ceremony and Cultural Reconnection in Recovery
- The Role of the Loss of Language in Homelessness for Indigenous Peoples
- Understanding the Link Between Land Dispossession and Homelessness
- Homelessness Prevention for Indigenous Peoples
- Elder and Senior Homelessness in Rural and Urban Settings
- Prevention of Homelessness for Indigenous youth
- Voices of Indigenous Peoples with Lived Experience of Homelessness
- Strategies to Reduce Governmental, Institutional and Systemic barriers
- Innovative Strategies in Community Development
- Other

Housing First Call for Presentations

Housing First was first introduced into Canada almost a decade ago. Since then it has widely adopted across the country and has been adapted to fit many different local contexts to serve a range of different sub-populations.

The Housing First stream of sessions are geared toward senior leaders and front-line workers in organizations supporting people experiencing homelessness across Canada working in, or thinking about shifting to, a Housing First approach. It is designed to exchange practical and locally applicable learnings from a growing Canadian body of knowledge on Housing First in order to develop adaptable high performing Housing First programs.

There will be twelve 90-minute sessions in this stream. We are seeking presentations on the following topics:

- Adaptations of Housing First for Different Populations

- Other – This is not an exclusive list of topics, please feel free to propose a session or presentation topic

Women's Homelessness Call for Presentations

Women experiencing homelessness can face distinct gender linked challenges. According to the 2013 'State of Homelessness in Canada,' report, women are at increased risk for hidden homelessness, living in overcrowded conditions or having sufficient money for shelter, but not for other necessities. Violence against women is a major cause of homelessness for women; while some women may be able to access Violence Against Women shelters, others may have to engage the services of homelessness shelters. When women become homeless, they are at increased risk of violence and assault, sexual exploitation and abuse. As a result, many women will go to lengths to avoid the shelter system, including staying in dangerous and unhealthy relationships and/or making arrangements to move in with a partner (even when that situation is unsafe) rather than submit to the incredible risk of violence and exploitation on the streets.

This stream of sessions is designed as an opportunity to explore the causes of, and solutions to, homelessness for women. There will be 12, 90-minute sessions in this stream. We are seeking presentations with the following themes:

- The Intersection Between Homelessness and MMIWG
- The Role of Child Welfare in Ending Homelessness for Women
- Understanding and Responding to the Impacts of the Residential School Era
- Addressing Intergenerational Trauma
- The Role of Ceremony and Cultural Reconnection in Recovery for Indigenous women
- The Role of the Loss of Language in Homelessness for Indigenous Women
- Understanding the Link Between Land Dispossession and Homelessness
- Homelessness Prevention for Indigenous Women
- Addressing Gaps in Shelter and Housing for Vulnerable Women
- Mothering and Homelessness: Challenges and the Impact on Children
- Responses to Trafficking of Women
- The Unique Experience of Indigenous Women
- Advocating for Woman and Children with Child Protection Services
- Ending Homelessness for Senior and Elder women
- Trauma Informed Care
- Considerations in Homelessness Prevention for Women
- Listening to the Voices of Women and their Realities of Homelessness
- Models of Supportive Housing for Women
- Housing First for Women and their Families
- Strategies to Reduce Governmental, Institutional and Systemic Barriers
- Lessons on Successful Policy Advocacy

We will also welcome submissions on themes not included on this list that are in keeping with a focus on ending homelessness for women.

A Way Home Youth Homelessness Call for Presentations

In partnership with A Way Home Canada (a national coalition reimagining how we respond to youth homelessness through transformations in policy, planning and practice) we are hosting a stream of sessions on youth homelessness.

This stream of the conference will focus on policy, research, planning and practice considerations in preventing and ending youth homelessness. We are looking for evidence-based interventions that are showing results in preventing and ending youth homelessness. In your proposal please make it clear how your program is an evidence based intervention.

The overarching theme for 2018 is Youth Homelessness Prevention. Presentations and panels may cover any of the following categories:

- Family and Natural Supports programs including Youth Reconnections
- Shelter diversion programs or protocols such as Host Homes or school-based programs
- Youth transitioning from systems of care (Child Intervention, Justice, Mental Health/Addictions)
- Housing First for Youth programs
- Interventions that are focused on rural youth homelessness or targeted populations (LGBTQ2S, Indigenous, New Canadian)
- Supporting change management to make the shift to prevention
- Systems approach to policy and planning work
- Data collection, integration and/or harmonization
- Innovative community and government partnerships

In your submission, please clearly indicate which theme your presentation fits within. Also, please share the format you think would work best for your session (e.g. formal presentation, facilitated conversation, workshop with audience participation, etc.).

There will be six 90-minute concurrent sessions in this stream. Please note that we may not be able to schedule your submission as a full session and depending on the number of submissions, we may need to combine several submissions into single sessions.

Canadian Observatory on Homelessness Research and Policy Call for Presentations

The research and policy stream provides an opportunity for academics, researchers and policy makers to present their most promising, innovative and relevant research findings. Due to an increased number of submissions, we are prioritizing content and presenters that are able to explicitly identify the implications or the “so what” of their research. The most successful submissions will be broadly applicable to a wide range of stakeholders including: frontline service providers, policy makers, people with lived experience, researchers and academics.

Topic

We invite your submissions on the following topics:

1. Homelessness prevention
2. Indigenous homelessness
3. Youth Homelessness
4. Priority populations: women, families, veterans, etc.
5. Rural and small-town homelessness
6. Data and measuring progress towards ending homelessness
7. Knowledge mobilization practices regarding homelessness research, policy and practice
8. Other - You are also invited to submit an abstract on a theme not listed, so long as it is relevant to the overall conference theme.

Presentation Format

In 2017, we piloted new presentation formats. We received positive feedback from participants who felt that the formats provided a new and engaging experience. Due to the great success of the introduction, and the presenters who so enthusiastically participated, we are going to continue to introduce additional formats to grow our concerted effort to create a dynamic research and policy stream that includes a range of learning opportunities and presentation styles. We encourage presenters to explore creative presentation formats, in addition to the more traditional conference session format.

Below are a few ideas. In your submission, please indicate which formats you would be interested in. We will provide support to the selected presenters to ensure presentations meet the required format.

PechaKucha – A concise presentation style where presenters show 20 slides for 20 seconds each. The presentations are fast-paced and focus on key messages. This presentation style allows ample time for questions and engagement with attendees. Watch this YouTube video for more information.

Speed Geeking – A take on speed dating, where presenters are arranged along the outside of the room, in this format each presenter will have their own “station.” Each station has a facilitator. At the sound of a bell, attendees will move to a station where the presenter has 10 minutes to present to those seated at their table. Afterward, the facilitator will lead the group in a 10-minute discussion. After 20 minutes, attendees will move to a different station and presenter. Participants will attend four stations, meaning that each presenter will discuss their work four times with smaller groups. The small group format encourages deeper discussion and a range of opinions.

Talk Show – In this format, we will select 3 – 4 presenters who submitted research on a related topic, for example “Housing First.” Each presenter will have 5-7 minutes to provide an overview of their research, using up to 3 PowerPoint slides. When the presentations are through, the facilitator or the “talk show host” will facilitate a discussion about the topic. Presenters will receive a list of questions prior to the conference and will have the opportunity to provide input. Session attendees will be encouraged to ask questions too.

Debate - The debate format is a great way to create energy in a room for a research topic. This presentation would work best in a partnership, where both presenters are able to outline each side to an issue or new initiative. The format would allow for each side of the topic to start by presenting their idea in 15 minutes or less before launching into a timed debate with a moderator. Questions can be prepared beforehand and collected from the audience.

It is a creative way to inject improvisation and critical analysis into your presentation while keeping the audience engaged. Presenters who are interested in a debate must submit with others who are prepared to participate in this format.

Other Ideas – If you and your colleagues have an innovative format you’d like to try, please let us know in your submission. Your content and format should fill a 90-minute session. We will give preference to submissions that encourage the participation and engagement of attendees.

Submission Guidelines

Researchers (academic, government, non-profit, consultant) and students are invited to submit abstracts for presentations. Submissions that do not contain the following information will not be considered.

- Presentation title
- Preferred presentation formats (check all that apply)
 - Single presentation
 - Full panel (3 - 4 presenters)
 - PechaKucha
 - Speed Geeking
 - Talk Show
 - Debate
 - Other – please explain
- Primary topic (select one)
 - Homelessness Prevention
 - Indigenous homelessness
 - Youth Homelessness
 - Priority populations: women, families, veterans, etc.
 - Rural and small-town homelessness
 - Data and measuring progress towards ending homelessness
 - Knowledge mobilization practices regarding homelessness research, policy and practice
 - Other – please explain

- The name(s) and affiliation of presenters – that is, who will be presenting at the conference itself. If you are submitting a full panel, please indicate the name and affiliations of each presenter.
- Email address and contact details of key contact (select one)
- Abstracts cannot exceed 300 words and should include:
 - Statement of project’s purpose
 - Brief description of methods
 - Summary of findings (if applicable)
 - Implications for policy or practice (the “so what-ness”)
 - Keywords (up to 5)
- Answers to the following questions:
 - What types of stakeholders will be most interested in this research?
 - How does this research contribute to better solutions to prevent and end homelessness?
